This-N-That

2016 in my humble opinion in regard to the Veterans Affairs was a year of horrors, continued delays, denials and deaths and really no improvements what-so-ever, with the exception that current Secretary McDonald managed to get Congress to cough up billions of dollars for programs that produced almost nothing.

An estimated 8,030 Veteran Suicides, which several were caused directly by VA Staff turning away Veterans asking for help and estimated 300,000 Veteran's deaths due to delays, denials, and improper medical care and still another estimated 1.5 million homeless Veterans, and finally a continuation of the failed Care Act!

Then of course we had unethical VA Directors reinstated at full pay and bonus schedules allowed to continue their mayhem!

Granted this is not everything, but it's still a lot, and still the majority of Veterans won't speak out and I simply don't understand why, when it's their healthcare and benefits at risk.

Some want the VA privatized but don't think about what they're asking for just as with the Care Act which was not well thought out, just rushed to the table to be voted on and figure it out later.

IF the VA were privatized then I could almost guarantee there would be far less care and benefits being provided as the VA would still hold on to the purse strings and based on costs in each area would have the option to always say NO.

Now, imagine if you will, Bonuses were removed for any VA employee by Congress. Centralized purchasing and warehousing facilities were provided by region and the massive buying power the VA has being utilized to it's fullest?

An example would be a defibrillator. Although costs have come down drastically since I did my last research, when purchased 1-10 at a time cost is $2,999.00 for a unit with all the bells and whistles.

Now imagine buying for say 25 VA facilities a quantity of 2,500 cost would drop down to $800.00 each. That would produce a cost savings of $5,497,500. That same savings could easily translate to salaries for an added 15 new doctors, 20 new nurses, and benefits at $2,000.00 per month for 686 Veterans.

Now take that example and multiply by 5 and I'm sure you can see how this would make serious improvements and changes.

All the more reason why we so desperately need someone as Secretary of the VA who knows and understand Veterans, operations, budgets and more and more than willing to jump in with both feet to make this happen. And why VFC has been so supportive of Commander John Wells.

Even if you do nothing else for the remainder of 2017, think about giving your support to Commander Wells and sign the petition noted further down.

On behalf of our Volunteers nationwide and myself, we wish you and your family good health!

Respectfully,

Jim Davis

Heart Surgery-related Infection Warning

More than 1,400 Minnesota veterans received certified letters in the mail in December notifying them they are at risk of a potentially deadly infection. It is part of a massive effort by hospitals nationwide to warn patients that equipment used in many heart surgeries may have been contaminated with a dangerous bacteria. This is not an issue isolated to the VA and veterans. Back in October, the CDC warned that heater-cooler units used during open heart surgeries to keep a patient's circulating blood at a specific temperature may have been contaminated in the manufacturing process. Since then, hospitals all across the country have been notifying patients about a possible infection called nontuberculous mycobacterium (NTM). Half a million patients nationwide may be at risk.

BLUE WATER NAVY VIETNAM VETERANS ACT INTRODUCED

Congressman David Valadao (R-CA) along with Reps. Timothy J. Walz (D-MN), Elise M. Stefanik (R-NY), Joe Courtney (D-CT) and Dennis Ross (R-FL) yesterday introduced H.R. 299, the Blue Water Navy Vietnam Veterans Act. The bill seeks to reverse a 2002 decision by the Secretary of Veterans Affairs to exclude from Agent Orange benefits those veterans who served in the bays, harbors and territorial seas of the Republic of Vietnam.

Cdr. John B Wells, USN (Retired), executive director of the Louisiana-based, non-partisan Military-Veterans Advocacy, worked closely with Congressman Valadao's staff.

"This bill is necessary to correct a longstanding injustice," Wells said. "Despite all scientific evidence to the contrary, the VA has refused to reverse this arbitrary and capricious decision. Tens of thousands of veterans have been denied compensation and healthcare without good reason."

A previous version of the bill died in Committee in the last Congress despite having 336 sponsors in the House and 47 in the Senate. At issue was the need to find a funding offset to comply with the Pay As You Go Act of 2010.

Wells laid the blame for the failure of the previous legislation at the feet of Sen. Patrick Leahy of Vermont.

"By working with members of Congress from both parties, we were able to agree on an increase in student visa fees to generate the $1.1 billion over 10 years that is necessary to pay for the benefits," Wells said. "One Senator refused to go along with the fee increase, which kept the bill from moving forward. I was disappointed that a United States Senator would put foreign students ahead of dying veterans. I met with his staff last month but they refused to reverse their decision."

As many as 90,000 veterans would be covered by the bill.

"We sincerely hope President-Elect Trump will seek to exempt veterans benefits from the provisions of the Pay As You Go Act," Wells said. "These benefits were earned by the veterans and we should not leave them to fend for themselves or to cut another veteran benefit to fund their compensation and care."

The bill has the support of the Association of the U. S. Navy, Fleet Reserve Association and the Blue Water Navy Vietnam Veterans Association. Wells expects other veterans groups to signal their support, as well.

Pentagon Ends Program to Detect Brain Injuries

Traumatic Brain Injury (TBI) is one of the signature wounds of the wars in Iraq and Afghanistan, but the Pentagon has quietly sidelined a program that placed blast gauges on thousands of combat troops in Afghanistan that would detect that injury.

NPR reported last month that the monitoring was discontinued because the gauges failed to reliably show whether service members had been close enough to an explosion to have sustained a concussion, or mild TBI.

But the small wearable devices produced “a trove of data on blast exposure that could eventually have helped researchers understand the links between bomb blasts, concussions and brain diseases. And they produced evidence that many service members are exposed to worrisome levels of blast pressure simply by being near a heavy weapon when it's fired.”

Retired General Peter Chiarelli, who was the Army's vice chief of staff before retiring in 2012, called the decision to warehouse the blast gauges “a huge mistake.” He is now the chief executive officer of One Mind, a nonprofit focused on brain illness and injury.

Mild TBI was the signature wound of the wars in Iraq and Afghanistan, affecting more than 200,000 troops. Having data from blast sensors could play "a very, very important role in helping us understand why an individual has negative effects from a concussion," Chiarelli says, "or why an individual develops one of the neurodegenerative diseases that seem connected with concussion, everything from ALS, to Parkinson's to dementia and even Alzheimer's."

One of the reasons given for the discontinuation of the program by Eric Fanning, Secretary of the Army, was that the gauges failed to show how much blast exposure is too much. The gauges contain sensors that measure overpressure, the sudden increase in air pressure caused by an explosion.

Soldiers downrange noticed that the sensors registered significant overpressure exposure from firing weapons, such as shoulder-fired rockets, in confined spaces - not when they were exposed to enemy explosions.

As researchers began looking at the data from the gauges, it became clear that overpressure exposure from firing their own weapons was common for US soldiers.

"The majority of exposures were not from improvised explosive devices, as you might expect," says David Borkholder, an engineering professor at the Rochester Institute of Technology and the founder of BlackBox Biometrics, which makes the blast gauges. Instead, the culprit was usually "blast-intensive weapons systems" like recoilless rifles, shoulder-fired rockets, artillery and mortars, he says.

The Department of Defense's goal for the program was to identify troops with brain injuries caused by the blast wave from a bomb. From that metric, the program failed.

Point-of-Service Controls Keeping Rx Savings on Track

The Department of Defense pharmacy program is on track to slice $1.3 billion off projected drug costs from 2014 to 2019, thanks to higher beneficiary co-pays, tighter point-of-service rules and recent streamlining of prescription drug processes across the military, according to the Defense Health Agency (DHA). One of the more surprising aspects of savings being captured is that average annual out-of-pocket costs for beneficiaries have stayed flat or even fallen, despite recent increases in drug co-payments. New DAV Video on "Putting Choice in Context"

With a new Congress underway, and a new President and potentially a new VA Secretary about to take office, DAV is continuing its campaign to "set the record straight" on veterans health care by educating policymakers, veterans and the public about the best way to strengthen and reform the VA system.

Yesterday we released a new video entitled "Putting Choice In Context," which looks at the role of "choice" in VA health care, and we encourage you to view it.

This video was posted on the DAV Twitter and Facebook accounts and is available on the DAV website. There you will also find other educational and advocacy materials on veterans health care reform that we have developed to ensure that our voices are heard as Congress and the new Administration begin to make critical decisions about the future of VA health care.

We know that some veterans have difficulty accessing VA medical care, so providing other "choices" has to be part of the solution. But any "choice" program has to fit into the big picture of ensuring the best health care outcomes for injured and ill veterans, particularly those who choose and rely on VA. That's why DAV and other VSOs proposed creating local networks that integrate VA and appropriate community partners, with VA remaining the coordinator and primary provider of care. This new model of health care delivery has already been endorsed by VA, some leaders in Congress and the independent Commission on Care.

Please use the prepared electronic letter to urge your Representative and Senators view the video and support our efforts to strengthen and reform the VA health care system.

In the coming days, weeks and months ahead, we need to continue educating Congress about how best to strengthen, reform and sustain the VA health care system, and your participation will be critical in this fight. Thanks for all you do and best wishes for a Happy New Year.

Operation Mail Call

Never Forgotten

Never Enough Thanks for Your Sacrifices

Operation Mail Call needs your help! We need cards and letters to send to our troops currently serving on foreign soil.

Our men and women in uniform often go months without hugging their children, walking through the park with a significant other or enjoying Mom's home-cooked Sunday dinners.

Ask them where they'd go if they had a free plane ticket anywhere in the world, and the overwhelming majority would say, "home."

Of course, we can't replace the hugs, the love or the secret family chili recipe – but with your help, we can provide them a connection to their fellow Americans who are grateful for their service.

Now, we're hoping you'll take your support to the next level by sending more cards and letters. Hand made cards by your children, or class mates are a terrific means of putting smiles on their faces even if only for a moment.

Cards and Letters of encouragement to help boost moral and let them know we sincerely appreciate the job they are doing and look forward to they day they are all brought home. Your card or letter will show your appreciation and help thousands more American heroes feel connected to the people they love and the country they serve.

Please help us to make a powerful expression of how much their fellow Americans care about them.

Thank you so much for all you're doing to show our service men and women they are appreciated missed and loved.

If you're a school teacher, please contact me at my E-Mail address at the top, our troops love to hear from kids too!

VA Crisis Line Opens Center

The Department of Veteran Affairs recently opened its new Veteran Crisis Line (VCL) satellite office in Atlanta allowing the life-saving hotline to expand capacity by nearly 600 veterans each day, essentially doubling VA's ability to help veterans in need. Callers can dial the National Suicide Prevention Hotline number 1-800-273-TALK (8255) and veterans can choose option 1 to reach a VHA VCL Responder. The text number is 838255, or veterans may chat with trained professionals online at Vets.gov. Calls, texts, and chats are immediately directed to a VA professional who is specially trained to handle emotional and mental health crises for veterans and service members. No Announcement Yet on New VA Secretary

According to press reports the two men who were apparently the top candidates for Secretary of Veterans Affairs withdrew from consideration over the New Year's weekend. The two men, Florida businessman Luis Quinonez and Cleveland VA Clinic CEO Toby Cosgrove, announced on Saturday that they no longer wished to be in the running for the position.

Both had met with President-elect Trump several times to discuss the matter but in the end both declined. This leaves former U.S. Senator Scott Brown and Fox News commentator and former president of Concerned Veterans for America, Pete Hegseth, as the most prominent names being mentioned.

Former chairman of the House Veterans Affairs Committee, Jeff Miller, who just retired from Congress, had been mentioned as another possible candidate but he apparently has not met with Mr. Trump for some time.

TREA is watching this closely because we have great concern about what may happen at the VA. While there has been improvement at the VA there are still major challenges left and many services to veterans still must be improved. However, there has been much talk about privatizing some of the services that the VA provides and we are very concerned about that.

This is something we continue to watch and wait for with great unease.

DoD Announces New Outreach Efforts to Veterans Regarding Discharges and Military Records

The Department of Defense today announced a renewed effort to ensure veterans are aware of the opportunity to have their discharges and military records reviewed. Through enhanced public outreach, engagement with Veterans Service Organizations (VSOs), Military Service Organizations (MSOs), and other outside groups, as well as direct outreach to individual veterans, the department encourages all veterans who believe they have experienced an error or injustice to request relief from their service's Board for Correction of Military/Naval Records (BCM/NR) or Discharge Review Board (DRB).

Additionally, all veterans, VSOs, MSOs, and other interested organizations are invited to offer feedback on their experiences with the BCM/NR or DRB processes, including how the policies and processes can be improved.

In the past few years, the department has issued guidance for consideration of post-traumatic stress disorder (PTSD), as well as the repealed "Don't Ask, Don't Tell" and its predecessor policies. Additionally, supplemental guidance for separations involving victims of sexual assault is currently being considered.

The department is reviewing and consolidating all of the related policies to reinforce the department's commitment to ensuring fair and equitable review of separations for all veterans. Whether the discharge or other correction is the result of PTSD, sexual orientation, sexual assault, or some other consideration, the department is committed to rectifying errors or injustices and treating all veterans with dignity and respect.

With today's announcement, the department is reaffirming its intention to review and potentially upgrade the discharge status of all individuals that are eligible and that apply.

To request an upgrade or correction:

Veterans who desire a correction to their service record or who believe their discharge was unjust, erroneous, or warrants an upgrade, are encouraged to apply for review.

For discharge upgrades, if the discharge was more than 15 years ago, the veteran should complete DD Form 293

(<http://www.dtic.mil/whs/directives/forms/eforms/dd0293.pdf>) and send it to their service's DRB (the address is on the form). For discharges over 15 years ago, the veteran should complete the DD Form 149 (<http://www.dtic.mil/whs/directives/forms/eforms/dd0149.pdf>) and send it to their service's BCM/NR (the address is on the form).

For corrections of records other than discharges, veterans should complete the DD Form 149 and submit their request to their service's BCM/NR (the address is on the form).

Key information to include in requests:

There are three keys to successful applications for upgrade or correction. First, it is very important to explain why the veteran's discharge or other record was unjust or erroneous—for example, how it is connected to, or resulted from unjust policies, a physical or mental health condition related to military service, or some other explainable or justifiable circumstance. Second, it is important to provide support, where applicable, for key facts. If a veteran has a relevant medical diagnosis, for example, it would be very helpful to include medical records that reflect that diagnosis. Third, it is helpful, but not always required, to submit copies of the veteran's applicable service records. The more information provided, the better the boards can understand the circumstances of the discharge.

BCM/NRs are also authorized to grant relief on the basis of clemency. Veterans who believe their post-service conduct and contributions to society support an upgrade or correction should describe their post-service activity and provide any appropriate letters or other documentation of support.

Personnel records for veterans who served after 1997 should be accessible online and are usually retrievable within hours of a request through the Defense Personnel Records Information Retrieval System (DPRIS). To obtain one's personnel records from DPRIS, go to <https://www.dpris.dod.mil/>, then select "Individual Veteran Access" on the left side of the website and follow the instructions. Veterans will need to register for a logon and verify their current mailing address before requesting records. The whole process usually takes less than 10 minutes. Those who served prior to 1997 or for whom electronic records are not available from DPRIS, can request their records from the National Personnel Records Center (NPRC) using the eVetRecs website at: <http://www.archives.gov/veterans/military-service-records/>.

To submit feedback on policies or processes:
