This-N-That

It seems the feathers are flying in DC over who should take over as Secretary of the VA. And I do have a personal preference, but as before my choice would most likely never even get an interview and of all the people there are my choice would seem to be the perfect one and someone who is not a VA insider.

But he does know the system inside and out, has spent his life since retirement to do nothing but help Veterans and gone to DC a number of times to fight on various bills that would benefit Veterans.

But the key question is who will be next, what is that persons perception of the VA, Veterans, Benefits, Medical Care and provision of services.

I still hear people all the time (not many) about privatization and that is still not the answer. People don't take into account that some of the VA facilities have some of the best research facilities in the world. And the problems are in the other facilities. No one stops to think that the VA would still exist, and they would still hold the purse strings, and still have all the power to deny services and care. Or as they have done and have a proven track record of now, is to say yes you have permission and we will cover the bills only to find out within a month or two your the one getting the bills and the VA is denying they gave approval and denying payment of the bills.

The bigger problem is Veterans themselves are their own biggest enemy of the system. The majority rely on others to fix and repair the system and so far that has produce nearly nothing. And how many more lives have we lost in the mean time? Is it fair to the families of those whom we have lost who have paid the price worth the continued silence?

If Veterans would take 30 minutes a week out of their lives to pick up the phone and call their reps in DC, send the E-Mails on the individual members of Congress websites, and even fax them with the exact same message every single week, stopping their flow of "normal business", preventing them from doing what they do best "line their own pockets", they would indeed stop, listen, pay attention and produce solutions via legislation. Only for the simple fact that they need and want to get back to their favorite past time, "lining their pockets!"

Whether your reps in DC are your favorites or you despise them for what they have done, if we just did what I said we should be doing, they would listen.

We don't need to protest, destroy property, cause loss of life like the protestors of today, but take actions in a civil and adult fashion as we should have been doing for decades we could get results.

Look at all those doing all the damage and destruction, politicians are listening to them, and taking actions for them, so you can't disprove the theory and actions proposed.

We need to stop this cycle of delay, deny and let them die. Enough is enough, so please give this some serious thought!

Many of you may remember Betty Hidalgo who was our director of Service Member Care Packages Program.

We would collect post cards, letters and cards and she would assemble care packages with goodies made from home, items donated by various stores which included candy bars, nutrition bars, snack packs, DVD's, etc. and she would put them all together and insert the cards, letters, etc and ship them out on a weekly basis.

Betty became quite ill about three weeks ago and a few days ago we received notice that she had bone cancer, then found out it spread and became cervical cancer. And this morning we received even worse news and that it was also colon cancer and is now stage 4.

The plan is intense and heavy chemo therapy, and beyond that who knows what may come next.

But I did want you to know that she is not doing well, and her husband is an Army Vietnam Veteran, and his grandsons are now serving in Afghanistan.

Betty married James Rabuse May 27, 2017 and became Mrs. Betty Hidalgo-Rabuse and they will be celebrating their first anniversary next month.

Betty's only wish was to be able to travel after she retired and had always wanted to go to Hawaii, but air travel is now out of the question, and in speaking with James this morning was that he want to fulfill her only wish to travel, and his intentions are to sell off everything they own, buy a small RV just big enough for the two of them and take her across the country.

They will be needing help from anyone who can, so he will be setting up a go-fund me page and as soon as we have the details we will put it out there for anyone who desires to help can do so.

Over the past I have discussed ALS (Lou Gherig's disease), Parkinson's and a few other illnesses most are covered by the VA now.

One thing that the VA has never ever mention and very few know is that anyone who has served in the military are 70% more likely to develop one or the other. And symptoms are not really clearly understood or known.

You could have one or the other for a long time and never know it, or never really know the signs some of which are stumbling more often, falling, dropping things, feeling the inability to breath correctly or difficulty swallowing.

With ALS, there is no test to prove or disprove the presence of the illness. In fact they need to run every test under the sun and rule out all other illnesses to come to the final conclusion and diagnosis that you have ALS.

ALS is probably one of the worst illnesses on the planet. It traps you in your own body, complete and total loss of movement, ability to eat, breath, care for yourself or even speak, yet you can see and hear and understand everything going on around you and completely robs you of your dignity.

Your every need must be provided to you by someone else. And if this is a family member, no one could ever imagine just how much work that is, how difficult s it not only for you, but for the person who has ALS.

There are hundreds if not thousands of books available and the ALS Foundation is extremely supportive and can help with care giving, especially where the VA drops off.

But I did want to give a little more insight to ALS and Parkinson's so that you are aware of the signs and symptoms and hopefully get a diagnosis far sooner than later. And so that you know how much time you have to spend together.

On behalf of our Volunteers nationwide and myself, we wish you and your family good health!

Respectfully,

Jim Davis

VA Improves Transition Assistance Program

As part of the U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs (VA) ongoing efforts to help transitioning servicemembers navigate and understand VA's various benefits, the agency recently updated VA's briefing portion of the Transition Assistance Program (TAP). The new VA briefing is designed to be more collaborative and stimulating, helping servicemembers make informed decisions about their health care, employment, housing and other benefits. Because no two transitions are the same, the updates deliver elements relevant to servicemembers based on where they are in their career and life. For more information, see this article.

Exchanges Fear Merger with Commissaries

DoD officials would like congress to approve a plan to merge the Defense Commissary Agency (DeCA) with the three military exchange services into a single store system to be called the Defense Resale Enterprise. However, the executives of the Army & Air Force Exchange Service, Navy Exchange Command and the Marine Corps exchange systems are resisting the effort. Read this week's 'Update' to learn why AAFES, NEX, and MCX fear the merger with DeCA.

The Civilian Resume Checklist

Six seconds — that is how much time a recruiter will typically spend on a resume review before deciding whether to put it in the 'yes' or 'no' stack. This is a lot of pressure to put on a single document that basically determines if you are going to move forward in the job search process. Use the resume checklist to help you get a civilian recruiter's attention.

Life Changes Can Impact Your TRICARE Options

When your life changes, your TRICARE options may also change. With TRICARE, certain life events (like moving due to a permanent change of station, getting married or divorced, adopting or having a baby, becoming Medicare eligible or losing health coverage) are called Qualifying Life Events. QLEs include military and family-related changes. A QLE may allow you to enroll in a new TRICARE plan or change your coverage options, but you must make the changes within 90 days following the QLE. If one member in a sponsor's family experiences a QLE, all eligible family members may change their enrollment status during the QLE period. National Infantry Museum Marks WWI Centennial

Many installations across the Army are marking or have marked the centennial of the construction of their posts, which occurred in the weeks and months following the U.S. Declaration of war on Germany, April 6, 1917. To mark the occasion, the National Infantry Museum at Fort Benning has devoted a large exhibit to what is referred to as 'the Great War.' The Museum has been voted the best free museum in the nation by USA Today newspaper and one of the top 12 best military museums in the world by a CNN poll. VA Life Insurance Programs

Injuries or medical conditions from service may make it difficult or even impossible for Veterans to obtain private life insurance. But VA offers life insurance programs that do not look at service-connected disabilities (and in some cases any disabilities) during the eligibility process. These include: (1) Veterans' Group Life Insurance (VGLI), (2) Servicemembers' Group Life Insurance Disability Extension (SGLI-DE), (3) Service-Disabled Veterans' Insurance (S-DVI), and (4) Veterans' Mortgage Life Insurance (VMLI). VA life insurance programs require Veterans to apply for the coverage — it is not automatic. Visit Explore.VA.gov to learn about VA benefits and how to apply.

Student Debt Forgiveness for Disabled Vets

The Trump administration has announced plans to make it easier for permanently disabled military veterans to have their federal student debt wiped away. People with severe disabilities are eligible by law to have the government discharge their federal student loans, but the benefit has not been widely publicized. Working with the Department of Veterans Affairs, the U.S. Department of Education will begin identifying eligible veterans who will receive an application for loan forgiveness. Disabled veterans must sign and return the application to complete the process. For more details, see this news story.

Sound Off: Was the Dino Re-Enlistment Really That Bad?

Support S. 2565, the Veteran Employment and Child Care Access Act of 2018

Multiple studies and surveys reveal that a significant barrier for veterans seeking VA services is lack of child care. The Department of Veterans Affairs (VA) is not authorized to provide child care assistance or services, with the exception of a limited number of pilot programs and many veterans with children find it difficult to access to VA health care, mental health services, benefits, training and educational services.

S. 2565- the Veteran Employment and Child Care Access Act of 2018 introduced by Senator Tammy Duckworth (IL), would require the VA Secretary to provide child care assistance to an eligible veteran for any period that the veteran receives training or rehabilitation services under the following VA programs: job counseling, training, and placement services; therapeutic and rehabilitative activities; homeless veterans reintegration programs; and homeless veterans with children reintegration programs.

In accordance with DAV Resolution No. 001, we support S. 2565 which would provide child care assistance to many service-disabled veterans- vastly improving their ability to successfully complete training, rehabilitative, and education programs.

Please use the prepared electronic letter or draft your own to urge your Senators to support and cosponsor S. 2565-the Veteran Employment and Child Care Access Act of 2018.

Your commitment and advocacy helps make DAV a highly influential and effective organization in Washington. Thank you for all you do for America's veterans and their families.

VA Updates and Improves Assistance Program for Transitioning Service Members

The turmoil at the very top of the Department of Veterans Affairs is continuing this week with the failed nomination of RDML Ronny Jackson to be

Secretary of Veterans Affairs. Despite that, the work of the VA continues and the following information was released recently.

TREA believes that TAP needs to be strengthened because it can be such an important program for those leaving the service and we are happy to see the VA working to do just that.

As part of the U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs (VA) ongoing efforts to help transitioning service members navigate and understand VA's various benefits, the agency recently updated VA's briefing portion of the Transition Assistance Program (TAP) - an interagency initiative authorized as a voluntary program in 1991 under the National Defense Authorization Act and made mandatory under the VOW to Hire Heroes Act in 2011 to help service members adjust to civilian life.

The new VA briefing is designed to be more collaborative and stimulating, helping service members make informed decisions about their health care, employment, housing and other benefits.

"Each year, thousands of military members leave the service and settle in communities around the nation, with the goals of establishing comfortable homes, attaining quality education for themselves and their families, and finding rewarding employment opportunities," said Acting VA Secretary Robert M. Wilkie. "Coming from the Department of Defense, I understand the importance of this great program, and I believe these changes will strengthen it further and provide real-life relevance to those who have given a portion of their lives to serving our nation."

Because no two transitions are the same, the updates deliver elements relevant to service members based on where they are in their career and life. The redesign will encourage whole-health support for service members and their family members, to include relevant information about Veterans Service Organizations (VSOs) and allow time to identify local VSO representatives.

The updates, released this month, incorporated suggestions made by Veterans, VSOs and post-9/11 Veterans groups, including taking a more holistic view of a service member's new life, as well as the psychosocial aspects of the transition to civilian life.

"In fiscal year 2017, VA provided more than 63,000 events to educate more than 500,000 transitioning service members and family members," said Margarita Devlin, executive director of the VA Benefits Assistance Service.

"VA consistently receives high evaluations from service members who attend these benefits briefings, and we have taken the next step by incorporating recommendations by other stakeholders to make the program even better."

VA will now work to fully integrate TAP objectives into the military lifecycle, and as an added benefit, will begin implementing a post-transition Veteran survey. To view VA's updated curriculum, visit <https://www.benefits.va.gov/TAP/>.

AF Offers Secure Health Care Messaging

The Air Force Medical Service now offers a secure messaging platform for patients and families to communicate safely and quickly with their providers. The TRICARE Online Patient Portal Secure Messaging, or Secure Messaging, can be especially valuable for patients using a specialty provider. Some clinics receive progress reports and input from many sources, including teachers, guidance counselors, and other medical providers. Receiving all these documents electronically over Secure Messaging makes it much easier for patients, parents and clinic staff to organize and share the information. Women Veterans Missing Out on Benefits

Women veterans are missing out on the Department of Veterans Affairs' (VA's) Burial and Memorial Benefits. Most women vets do not realize that even if they are in a dual military or dual veteran marriage, they can choose between a shared or separate gravesite. Minor children and adult children who are disabled could also be eligible for burial in National Cemeteries. VA also makes available its Pre-Need Burial Eligibility Determination. This is a way for women veterans to know they have communicated their wishes to their family to make it easier for the family to deal with things when the time comes. For more information, visit the National Cemetery Administration website.

Veteran Outreach in Oklahoma

The American Legion is conducting a multi-county district revitalization and veterans outreach effort April 26-27 in Bristow, Okla. Wartime veterans in and around Craig, Delaware, Mayes, Nowata, Ottawa, Washington, Osage, Pawnee, Rogers, and Tulsa counties are invited to attend to learn about Legion programs and obtain veterans benefits assistance. The effort will take place from 9 a.m.-3:30 a.m. both days at Klingensmith-Long Post 126, 132 W 8th St., Bristow. A veterans service officer will be available both days to assist with Department of Veterans Affairs-related issues and other veterans benefits questions.
