Volume 9, Issue 35

This-N-That

By now I'm sure you all know that Arizona Senator John McCain passed away on Saturday, August 25th from a non-curable brain cancer known as Glioblastoma. Our sincerest condolences to his family and staff.

This past week we have managed to find a couple of programming bugs on our website, and they have been repaired. So creating an account should no longer be a problem, and the few accounts that got caught in the programming issue, I will be repairing those accounts and will notify you by E-Mail you have access.

In addition there have been nearly 200 more new documents added to the system, some are on libraries that you would need to be a subscriber to gain access to, the remaining are open to anyone. And we have approximately 74,250 more documents to be added which will take time to prep, convert to PDF's and get uploaded into the appropriate library so be sure to check back often.

And the last change that has been made to the website is how articles will appear.

We now have various topics and articles will be posted in their category, and this will also allow you to view the article headings and choose to read those that interest you most, as well as to be able to see at a glance which articles happen to be the hottest or of more importance.

We did discover though that with this new layout we do have an added step to take so for now some articles don't have ability to post comments, and some do. This will be being corrected over the next 10-30 days so please be patient.

Again I need to say thank you to Regina M., Peggy D., Bruce J., and Dennis Z. for all their contributions to the website. Some you will be able to see now, others will be placed on-line as quick as we can.

I also want to thank all those who have e-mailed comments on various issues. I've not had a chance to respond to you as of yet, but I promise I will.

As some of you know there had been a trial going on against Monsanto, and the chemical weed killer known as Round-Up. And the case finally went to the Jury and the claimant has won, and there has been an award of $289 million dollars.

I am not an attorney, but personally I think this is a great piece of news as now it would seem doors are now further been kicked open and it's way more public than ever before and just might help Veterans in their claims against the VA for benefits and medical care.

Evidence had been presented during the trial that was never made known before and how Monsanto had pressured and bullied their own scientists and attorney's to prevent information from getting out and in the "wrong hands!" Well I interpret this as a "GAME OVER" situation.

So keep your fingers crossed that all this new evidence will make it's way to the VA and many decisions in the past can be over-turned, and possibly new illnesses added to the "approved" list, one being Glioblastoma!

On behalf of our Volunteers nationwide and myself, we wish you and your family good health!

Respectfully,

Jim Davis

BWN Needs Your Help!

The United States government, through its agency the Veterans Affairs, has a DUTY to TREAT medical problems associated with military service; COMPENSATE veterans (or their families) for early death or disability associated with their service; and MONITOR and DOCUMENT the effects of government policy and MISTAKES that created a higher health risk. For 50 years, VA has FAILED to monitor and document the effects of Agent Orange on military members that served in the "Blue Water Navy" during Vietnam. Congress is attempting to "fix" this dereliction of duty - and VA Officials oppose the change. We the people support treatment and compensation for these medical issues; and believe monitoring and documenting these issues should be the responsibility of VA, not the individual veterans.

Please sign, share on your page, copy and paste web link into an e-mail and send out to your entire e-mail address book and ask all your friends and family to sign, and forward on to their entire e-mail address book too!

You don't have to be active duty military, or a veteran, civilians can sign too. 98,000 signatures are needed

Are you enrolled, or do you plan to enroll, in school under the Post-9/11 GI Bill this year? If so, check out your estimated monthly housing allowance using the GI Bill Comparison Tool. Beginning August 1, 2018, VA will calculate monthly housing payments using the zip code of the campus you physically attend for most of your classes, which may be different than the actual school location.

Legislative Wrap Up

Last week, the Senate advanced three important bills including the VFW-supported S. 899, the Veterans Providing Healthcare Transition Improvement Act, which would ensure veterans who work for VA are able to attend medical appointments for service-connected health conditions within their first year of employment, without having to take unpaid leave. The Senate also passed H.R. 2147, the Veterans Treatment Court Improvement Act of 2018, which would require VA to increase the number of Veterans Justice Outreach Specialists who assist justice-involved veterans in receiving the treatment they need, instead of being incarcerated for crimes that were associated with untreated or undertreated service-connected health conditions. Both S. 899 and H.R. 2147 have passed by the House and Senate and now head to the president's desk. The Senate also advanced H.R. 6157, which would provide appropriations for the Department of Defense to carry out its mission, including an additional $10 million to enable the Defense POW/MIA Accounting Agency to identify the service members whose remains were recently returned by North Korea and reunite them with their loved ones — a mission the VFW fully supports.

VA Revamp of Appeals Process Continues

The Veterans Appeals Improvement and Modernization Act of 2017 (Appeals Modernization Act) was signed Aug. 23, 2017, aimed at transforming a complex, frustrating appeals process into one that is simple, timely and transparent. VA states that is working toward full implementation of the law, scheduled to take effect in February 2019. The new system features three differentiated lanes from which a claimant may choose in seeking review of a VA denial (or partial denial). Veterans-For-Change Web Site

The Veterans-For-Change website has been under construction since day one back in 2009 and every day since then. The looks pretty much stay the same, but in the background constant improvement and change is being done to make our website the most user friendly “One-Stop-Shop” website to find almost everything you might have tried to find searching the internet.

During the month of August 2018, we've added just under 200 new documents many in libraries you need to be a subscriber to view and download.

Additionally we're working on restructuring the NEWS section and making various categories where all new articles will be posted to and all older articles are slowly being moved over into the new categories.

This change will make it easier for everyone to choose a category and be able to scroll through all the news pieces and see how many times each has been viewed and you can see for yourself which news pieces are hot and which aren't.

Almost a hundred people have been involved; collecting web links to documents now housed on the VFC website, collecting thousands of web links for various issues, illnesses and benefits. Creating forums for all eras of service and two forums one just for men and one just for woman where you can go question, comment, share medical and personal concerns, whatever you'd like it to be.

We also have a forum with for Mental Health and are currently seeking a new Licensed Mental Health Worker, where you can seek help or just ask questions.

We average 3,000 hits per day, and downloads average 1,990 per day with a total 4,323,856 visitors as of Friday.

If you subscribe you will have full access to the entire website and best of all it's FREE of charge! You just need a valid E-mail address so the system can send you a confirmation E-Mail. Once received, click on the link to be authorized automatically.

Veterans Committees Pressure VA to Conduct Cannabis Research

Members of the House and Senate Committees on Veterans' Affairs sent VA Secretary Robert Wilkie a letter urging him to use his current authority to conduct medical research into the safety and efficacy of medicinal cannabis. The letter highlighted conducting this research with a focus on veteran patients with post-traumatic stress disorder and chronic pain so providers can better understand the potential benefits or dangers of medicinal cannabis. The authors of the letter, Senators John Tester and Dan Sullivan, as well as Representatives Tim Walz and Phil Roe, have also introduced H.R. 5520 and S. 2796, the VA Medicinal Cannabis Research Act of 2018, which are both supported by the VFW and would require VA to conduct such research. The letter also discusses that as more than half the country has legalized cannabis for medicinal or recreational use, veterans are legally obtaining it for medicinal purposes. "The veterans primarily get their health care from VA, but because of restrictive regulations, VA doctors are barred from recommending and, until recently, discussing, medicinal cannabis. The pervasive lack of research makes their jobs even more difficult, leaving VA clinicians flying blind, without concrete recommendations to provide veterans. VA doctors deserve to be fully informed about medicinal cannabis so that they can provide fact-based guidance to their patients." Read the letter.

Did VA Slow-roll Agent Orange Report?

Since 2016, the U.S. government has had in its possession a report that suggests that as many as four new conditions — bladder cancer, hypothyroidism, Parkinson-like tremors and hypertension — could be added to its list of 14 illnesses VA presumes have been caused by exposure to herbicides the U.S. military sprayed during the Vietnam War. But to this point, nothing has been done with these findings. For more details on the issue, see this ARTICLE.

Vocational Rehabilitation and Employment Program to Expand

VA is beginning the process of hiring more Vocational Rehabilitation and Employment (VR&E) counselors to help reduce the backlog of claims and wait times for users of this program. VR&E counselors are supposed to have a 1 to 125 counselor-to-case ratio, but the current ratio is much higher. The increased workload for counselors has led to delays in processing of VR&E claims and payments for the past few years. The VFW has long advocated for more money and more counselors in the VR&E system, and at the 119th VFW National Convention, VA Under Secretary for Benefits Dr. Paul Lawrence stated Vocational Rehabilitation would be one of his top priorities. The VFW is glad to see VA is finally addressing these concerns. This program currently has more than 120,000 participants, and hopefully the additional counselors will help veterans utilize this incredibly valuable program more effectively. VA Studying "Hidden" Wounds

Combat veterans can experience long lasting emotional and spiritual pain from participating in, witnessing, or failing to prevent traumatic events that violate their core values or expectations of themselves or others. Some have described such experiences as 'a deep soul wound that pierces a person's identity' leaving veterans to question who they are and how they can relate to others. As a result, veterans may experience symptoms of PTSD, depression or substance use, or they may consider ending their own lives. Researchers at the San Diego VA are tackling these critical questions with research aimed to understand how to help veterans recover from such events and resume their meaningful, fulfilling lives. Army to Screen 40,000 Homes for Lead

Following a Reuters report last week that found children living in Army housing faced a substantial risk of lead exposure, the Army announced this week that it will be conducting a review of approximately 40,000 on-post residences. The report highlighted medical findings showing that 31 children living in communities at Ft. Benning, Ga., suffered lead poisoning after being exposed to lead-based paint. The report also stated that in addition to homes at Ft. Benning, homes at Ft. Polk, Ft. Hood, Ft. Knox, Ft. Riley, and the United States Military Academy also tested dangerously high for lead. Additionally, between 2011 and 2016, more than 1,000 children living on post tested above the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention's lead threshold level. At a press conference on Tuesday, Secretary of Defense James Mattis stated, "...this is a moral obligation we have to the families to provide safe lodging, obviously, for them. Report Finds Veterans Improperly
Denied MST-related PTSD Claims

VA's Office of Inspector General (OIG) released a report that investigated denied disability claims for posttraumatic stress disorder (PTSD) related to military sexual trauma (MST). The findings concluded that the Veterans Benefits Administration (VBA) processed approximately 12,000 claims annually over the past three years for PTSD related to MST. In FY2017, VBA denied about 5,500 of those claims. The OIG review team sampled 169 denied claims and discovered 82 were incorrectly processed, which indicates an overall adjudication error rate of 49 percent. The incorrectly processed denial error projections were mostly found to be due to evidence submitted, VA not requesting adequate evidence, veterans submitting claims not being contacted by VA's MST coordinators, and insufficient medical opinions. "The Inspector General's report is very troubling," said VFW National Commander B.J. Lawrence in a press statement. "The VA's own statistics show that suicide rates among military sexual assault victims are a growing problem, yet here we have VBA — which is the key to all things VA — incorrectly processing almost a quarter of all claims. That's failing our veterans." Veterans who submitted claims for PTSD related to MST and feel their claims were improperly denied may contact the VFW for claims assistance. Read the report.

Explosive Souvenirs are Unsafe

Veterans sometimes unknowingly put themselves, their families, and neighbors in danger by keeping munitions as war souvenirs or keepsakes. Veterans and their families also incorrectly assume such munitions are safe because they are frequently handled or because the munitions are old. The Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco, Firearms and Explosives (ATF) continues to be concerned with the type and number of military munitions they recover voluntarily each month from veterans and from the families of deceased veterans. The ATF reports about 50 recoveries every month of munitions ranging from hand grenades and smoke grenades to mortar rounds and landmines. No matter what you call them — souvenirs, war mementos, duds, or simulators — munitions are dangerous by design and should never be considered safe. This has led the Department of Defense to launch a new campaign against souvenir munitions and explosives called the 3Rs Explosives Safety Education Program, which instructs people to: recognize the danger souvenir munitions pose to yourself, your family and neighbors; retreat, do not disturb, touch, or move it; and report, call 911 and advise the police. VetSuccess Aid on Campus

Recognizing that making the transition to college life can be challenging for veterans, the Department of Veterans Affairs (VA) offers the VetSuccess on Campus (VSOC) program, which can help veterans and qualified dependents. The VSOC program provides a VA Vocational Rehabilitation Counselor (VRC) to each VSOC school. These VRCs are called VetSuccess on Campus (VSOC) Counselors.
