Mirtha Villarreal-Younger, Deputy Secretary, Minority Veterans Affairs

NEW CALVET STAFF

CalVet welcomes the Governor's newest appointees: Diane Vanderpot, Undersecretary for the Veterans Homes of California and Mirtha Villarreal-Younger, Deputy Secretary, Minority Veterans Affairs. The Executive Team is now complete.

Ms. Vanderpot is a retired Army Colonel. She was senior policy officer for arms control at the Office of the U.S. Secretary of Defense from 2010 to 2012, a professor at the U.S. Army War College from 2009 to 2010 and intelligence director for the Multi-National Force-Iraq Force Strategic Engagement Cell from 2008 to 2009. She served in multiple positions at U.S. Army Europe in Heidelberg, Germany from 2003 to 2007, including chief of intelligence operations and community commander. Vanderpot was intelligence director for the Coalition/Joint Task Force-Kuwait at Camp Doha, Kuwait from 2001 to 2002 and served in multiple other positions as an officer in the U.S. Army from 1985 to 2012. Vanderpot earned a Master of Science degree in national security and strategy from the U.S. Naval War College.

"Ms. Vanderpot will help ensure CalVet's continued ability to provide the quality living experience and professional medical care the disabled and older veterans living in our homes deserve," said Secretary Peter J. Gravett. "Her years of leadership experience will also help ensure our homes continue to run as effectively and efficiently as possible."

Ms. Villarreal-Younger was director of state personnel at the California Military Department, where she served in multiple positions since 2001, including deputy director of state personnel programs, state equal employment officer, deputy director of public affairs and command information officer and chief of community relations. Villarreal-Younger was a force integration officer at the California Army National Guard from 1997 to 2001.

"We are delighted with Ms. Villarreal-Younger's appointment," said Secretary Gravett. "Her prior leadership roles and her experience with military personnel position her well to understand the needs and address the challenges of the State's minority veteran community."

Secretary's Message

This month I would like to mention some very exciting news for veterans in California.

In response to the "backlog" of disability claims currently being experienced by the U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs (USDVA), Governor Brown recently authorized approximately $30 million and 36 limited-term positions for the creation of "Strike Force Teams" to help alleviate this major problem.

These Strike Force Teams, consisting of 12 Veterans Claims Representatives, will work alongside USDVA staff in Oakland, Los Angeles and San Diego, focusing on backlogged claims, ensuring they are properly developed and have all documentation needed for adjudication. We have already begun advertising to fill these limited-term positions.

Governor Brown's recent budget also includes a one-time augmentation of $3 million in support of California's network of 56 County Veterans Service Offices (CVSO). CVSOs have proved time and time again that they are effective advocates for California veterans. This augmentation recognizes their hard work and provides them with the additional resources they need to better serve our veterans.

In addition, preliminary plans and working drawings for the California Central Coast Veterans Cemetery will soon see the light thanks to General Fund loan of up to $1.5 million. This cemetery will be built on the grounds of the former Fort Ord U.S. Army post located on Monterey Bay.

And finally, we are moving ahead with conversion of 84 beds from skilled nursing level of care to independent living at the West Los Angeles Veterans Home. This change will allow the California Department of Veterans Affairs to serve a broader population of veterans. This, coupled with the opening of the Fresno and Redding Veterans Homes later this year, is great news for California's veteran community.

As you can see, there are many exciting developments in California that will greatly improve the quality of life for our deserving veterans.

Sincerely,

Peter J. Gravett, Major General (Ret)
Secretary, California Department of Veterans Affairs

CALIFORNIA CLAIMS BACKLOG STRIKE FORCE

Long-pending benefits claims submitted by California veterans and caught in the U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs (USDVA) "log jam" could soon see the light of day. The newly signed Governor's Budget has authorized $3 million and 36 limited-term positions that will allow CalVet to work with USDVA in alleviating its massive veterans' claims backlog.

The money will be used to hire a "Strike Force" team of 12 Veterans Claims Representatives (VCR) for each of the USDVA regional offices in Oakland, Los Angeles and San Diego. The teams will focus on backlogged claims to ensure they are properly developed and have all necessary documentation needed for adjudication.

"We appreciate the leadership of the Governor and the Speaker on this initiative as well as the Legislature's continued support of CalVet and its efforts to ensure the well-being of California veterans and their families," said CalVet Secretary Peter J. Gravett. "Helping them get the benefits they so richly deserve after their honorable service to our country is the very least we can do for them."

CalVet has already begun advertising to fill the limited-term positions and is looking to hire VCRs with previous

TROOPS TO TRADES

Veterans looking to become carpenters, electricians, locksmiths, HVAC technicians or other trades people now have help. A program, initiated by the California State University (CSU) Chancellor's Office, is accepting veterans into a skilled-trades vocational training course available at several pilot campuses in the CSU system. The veterans are taught one of 10 skilled trades and are paid a stipend while learning. The effort is a joint venture between the campus and the U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs Vocational Rehabilitation and Education Program. CalVet was instrumental in coordinating the resources and the marketing to veterans needed to ensure successful program initiation.

The first set of veteran apprenticeship candidates is currently being interviewed for trainee positions at CSU, San Bernardino and others will soon follow. This is a win-win situation for California State colleges and for our veterans.

veterans' benefits claims processing experience. The USDVA will provide office space, computers, phones and other equipment for the Strike Teams which will work under the supervision of CalVet regional office staff.

current list eligibility, go to http://jobs.spb.ca.gov/wvpos/more_info.cfm?recno=519425. Those not currently on the VCR eligibility list may view VCR exam information at www.calvet.ca.gov/Files/Exams/Other/VetClaimsRepIIRevJuly2013.pdf.

CALVET, STATE LIBRARY PARTNERSHIP EXTENDED

A veterans service partnership between CalVet and the California State Library will be extended and expanded. The year-long pilot program, with funding provided by U.S. Institute of Museum and Library Services and with direction and staff training provided by CalVet, established veterans resource centers in libraries in San Diego, Bakersfield and Redding. The centers offer veterans and their families information about the state and federal benefits they've earned through military service, how and where to file a benefits claim, and local services and service providers available to them.

Additional funding, announced at the recent State Librarians' Summit, along with continued direction and support from CalVet will enable the program to open veterans resource centers in five additional libraries in the state. A State Library focus group is working with CalVet to determine how best to expand the program, including how many and which library locations to add.

WEST LA RESIDENT MEDALS IN NATIONAL WHEELCHAIR GAMES

By Jeanne Bonfilio

Competing for his second year, 71-year-old Air Force veteran and West LA Veterans Home resident, John Smith, brought home a Silver Medal at the National Wheelchair Games. At this year's event, held in Tampa, Florida, Smith earned his medal in the team soccer category.

Last year, Smith won medals in the 200-meter race and the motorized wheelchair relay. The National Veterans Wheelchair Games is the largest wheelchair sports competition in the world!

Smith could hardly contain his excitement when he talked about his experiences at the Games. "Oh my! It was one of the most exciting things that I have ever attended," he said. "I have memories that will last forever." A member of American Legion Pacific Palisades Post 283, Smith is looking forward to competing in the games in Philadelphia next year.

"We're very proud of John's accomplishment. He overcomes adversity and no challenge is too great for him," said West LA Home Administrator Louis Koff.

The Games are presented each year by the U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs and the Paralyzed Veterans of America. They are open to all U.S. military veterans who use wheelchairs for sports competition due to spinal cord injuries, neurological conditions, amputations or other mobility impairments and showcase some of the world's greatest wheelchair athletes. More than 500 veterans from across the United States, Puerto Rico and Great Britain compete each year.

For more information about the National Wheelchair Games or to volunteer, go to www.wheelchairgames.va.gov.

FEDERAL GRANTS WILL HELP HOMELESS VETERANS

More than 14,000 veterans across the nation will benefit from job training, job placement, housing help and other services, thanks to federal grants totaling almost $29 million. The grants, recently announced by the U.S. Department of Labor, Veterans' Employment and Training Service, were awarded through the Homeless Veterans Reintegration Program. That is the only federal program that focuses exclusively on employment of homeless veterans.

In California, grants totaling nearly $4.3 million were awarded to 17 nonprofit organizations in 11 cities. "These funds will go a long way towards improving the well-being of California's homeless, jobless veterans and their families and helping restore the dignity they so deserve," said CalVet Secretary Peter J. Gravett. "We thank the Department of Labor and offer our congratulations to all our grantees."

The grants will help homeless veterans reintegrate into society and the labor force while providing effective services aimed at addressing the complex challenges that homeless veterans often confront, officials said. The services provided by grantees will include job placement, on-the-job training, career counseling, life skills and money management mentoring, as well as help in finding housing.

Funds were awarded on a competitive basis to state and local workforce investment boards, local public agencies and nonprofit organizations, including faith-based and community organizations. These organizations are familiar with the areas and populations to be served, officials explained, and have demonstrated that they can administer effective programs to help veterans.

VETERANS FEED AMERICA

If you are a veteran with a thing for working the land, dig this! The Farmer Veteran Coalition works to connect veterans to agriculture and to create meaningful careers through the collaboration of the farming and military communities. The organization believes that food production offers purpose, opportunity and physical and psychological benefits and that veterans possess the unique skills and character needed to strengthen rural communities and create sustainable food systems for all.

The Coalition serves military veterans of all eras and branches (though a majority of its veterans are from the most recent conflicts in Iraq and Afghanistan) interested in the agriculture industry. The Coalition works with veterans, their families, employers and mentors to support those returning to or beginning careers in food and farming.

The Coalition helps match veterans with job and internship/apprenticeship placement and networks with the agriculture industry to determine employment needs and gaps that can be filled by veterans. Internships and apprenticeships allow veterans with little or no agricultural background to grow their knowledge and experience outside of an academic (four year university) setting, while focusing on the practical application of everyday farm operations. Mentorship matching is available for farming veterans looking for assistance with their agriculture venture.

The Farmer Veteran Fellowship Fund assists veterans beginning a career in food and farming, and assists current Farmer Veterans with business expansion. Fellowship Fund grantees are awarded not only monetary assistance but also in-kind supplies, one-on-one farm advice, as well as mentorships. This exchange of knowledge and support between panel members and grantees is what makes the Farmer Veteran Fellowship Fund unique, and contributes to sustainable futures for our Farmer Veteran grantees'.

To learn more about the Farmer Veteran Coalition, including how to become a Farmer Veteran, how to become a Farmer Veteran mentor, how to find your local Farmer Veteran, and how to donate new or used farm equipment or supplies to the program, go to www.farmvetco.org.

VETERAN JOB SEEKERS BEWARE!

A company calling itself Monument Secure (not to be confused with Monument Security) is sending out e-mails targeting veterans. The company claims to be a security services provider seeking to hire security personnel. They require a $300.00 "refundable" deposit to obtain a "guard card." If you see their advertising or receive an e-mail from them, don't fall for the scam!

EAST AFRICAN CHILDREN'S CHOIR VISITS WEST LA

The Mwamba Uganda Children's Choir and their tour coordinators visited the West Los Angeles Veterans Home as part of their first trip to the West Coast.

NEWS ON THE DISABLED VETERANS BUSINESS FRONT

Ken Shoemake, newly elected president of the California Disabled Veterans Business Alliance (CADVBA), has got a laser focus--increasing disabled veteran business commerce and contract opportunity. At the recent Central Valley Chapter meeting, Shoemake took the podium and inspired disabled veterans with his vision of more business opportunity being directly impacted by the work of the non-profit all-disabled veterans group.

For the last 20 years, CADVBA's mission has been helping California's disabled veterans realize the dream of becoming their own boss and gaining financial independence. CADVBA has nine chapters statewide, and most services are free to California disabled veterans.

Severely Disabled Veteran Entrepreneur Training, a pilot program soon to be rolled out by CADVBA, will work with returning troops who have the potential to help themselves and other disabled vets through cooperative business creation. As CADVBA Executive Director Rich Dryden noted, "These men and women are used to working together, so extending the 'squad' concept to this option was a natural."

To learn more about CADVBE, its services and its accomplishments, go to www.cadvbe.org or call (916) 446-3510.

Also noteworthy in the disabled veterans business world, The Elite Service-Disabled Veteran-Owned Business Network (SDVOB) will hold its 10th Annual Conference in San Diego August 21-23, 2013. The Elite SDVOB Network is a national organization comprised of certified Service-Disabled Veteran-Owned Businesses headquartered in San Diego. Its mission is to assist service-disabled veterans start and grow their businesses.

The goal of this conference is to further that cause and provide SDVOB opportunities to meet and partner with government agencies and prime vendors who understand the value of utilizing SDVOB partners. To learn more about the Elite SDVOB Network Conference, go to www.sdvobconference.com.
